

Feed the Future Photo Contest

A picture is worth a thousand words. Help us tell the story of Feed the Future and our progress in ending hunger, poverty and undernutrition by sharing your photo(s) with us.

Submission requirements:

- High-resolution, high quality photos that are at least 1024 pixels or larger (tall or wide) or around 300 pixels per inch. Please send us the highest resolution version of the photo you have (at least 1 MB). If you are using Photoshop, please send only level7 or higher compressed photos.
- Accepted formats: high quality JPG and JPEG
- Photos must each be an original submission (submitted by photographer or with permission) and not previously submitted to a Feed the Future, Agrilinks, or USAID photo contest.
- Photos must each include a credit: name of photographer and organizational affiliation (if applicable)
- Photos must each include a unique, robust caption. This caption (two to five sentences at most) should include a description of what is going on in the photo, who is involved, where it was taken, and how it is a part of or relates to the Feed the Future initiative.
- Photos should “tell the story” of Feed the Future and its impact.
- Photos must be taken within the last two years.
- Photos must be in color (no black and white photos, please).

To submit a photo, please email ffphotos@gmail.com with all of the information required above and photo(s) attached. Individuals may submit up to three photos. Submissions with a logo or time stamp visible on top of the photo will not be accepted.

Submissions are due by Wednesday, February 5, 2020.

Some examples of the types of photos we're looking for (no photos of meetings, please!):

- Youth engagement in agriculture
- Research and innovation, such as new and digital technologies, in action
- Private sector engagement and markets
- Increased resilience
- Entrepreneurship
- Women's empowerment
- Doing business differently
- Improved nutrition
- Environment-sensitive development
- Feed the Future value chains (e.g., fish, horticulture, legumes)
- Agriculture and nutrition activities from farm to market to table, including off-farm activities

We'll upload the photos to Flickr for everyone to view and announce winners on the Feed the Future blog and social media platforms. We'll notify you via email if your photo has won. In the past, we've featured Feed the Future photo contest submissions in our annual Feed the Future progress report too!

Feed the Future (under USAID and the interagency) has the right to reproduce your photo in any format, including print products, on the web, and in social media (including Feed the Future site and platforms, USAID and/or other individual U.S. Government Feed the Future partner websites and platforms). Please make sure you read the disclaimer below for full details!

Disclaimer:

By submitting a photograph to this competition you:

1. Declare that you own the copyright of the photograph and it is your original work.
2. Declare that you have permission to use the visual image of any identifiable individual or building in the photograph for entry into the competition and that the image may be published as stipulated in the photo contest rules.
3. Agree that USAID and/or other individual U.S. Government (USG) Feed the Future partners who use the photo will not be responsible for the infringement of any third party rights in the photograph, moral or otherwise, that may arise as a result of your actions or omissions and that you indemnify USAID and/or other individual USG Feed the Future partners against all legal fees, claims, damages and other expenses that may be incurred as a result of your breach of the contest rules.
4. Grant reproduction rights for Feed the Future (under USAID and the interagency) use and in doing so agree that USAID and/or other individual USG Feed the Future partners can use your photograph for the purposes of the competition and also for future reproduction on websites and literature and other materials at USAID's and/or other individual USG Feed the Future partners' discretion (photographs will be credited where appropriate).
